Pleasanton Elementary.....a few years ago.

Name change for a friend?

PLEASANTON— A change of name for venerable Pleasanton Elementary School is expected to be acted upon at Wednesday night's Pleasanton Joint School District board meeting.

Trustees convene at 7:30 p.m. at the District Educational Center, 123 Main St.

At a previous meeting, trustees considered a name change to "Pleasanton School" — dropping the elementary — but elected to hold off any action until more members of the community were informed.

A name change has been imminent since the school will soon become strictly sixth, seventh and eighth grades. It has housed primary grades, as well as junior high, in the past.

Trustees are also slated to act on an architectural agreement for the Del Prado and Rolling Hills sites.

A testing report, annual school bus inspection report, adoption of special board meeting dates, awarding of bid for custodial supplies and equipment and resolutions recognizing retiring teachers Myrtle Culley and Roberta Hampton will also come before board members.

Council's full week--from sewers to gas

PLEASANTON — Alternatives and financing for the city's future sewer plant plans, park and recreation expenses, and a controversial gas station are on the docket for the city council this week in not one, but three meetings.

The council will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the city council chambers with the park and recreation commission to hammer out programs and capital improvements for the budget, whose final form is expected by June 14.

Later in the meeting the council will review sewer and water expenditure's in the budget.

The meeting Tuesday will begin at 7:30 p.m. and feature discussion of the alternatives and financing for the city's sewage treatment plant. The two basic alternatives are to switch the old city plant's effluent over to the VCS plant, as scheduled for the past few years, or build a new plant, assuming the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board would set discharge standards which the city could meet.

The gas station issue will come up Thursday at 8 p.m. Attorney Joseph Schwab has objected to the city manager's declaration that the Gas and Save station proposed for Hopyard Road and Johnson Industrial Drive does not need an Environmental Impact Report.

All of the city's other gas station dealers oppose the new station. Some citizens also are against it because they think it will make traffic problems at the intersection even more difficult.

Gas and Save has one station in the city at First and Ray streets and employees there have asked customers who are Pleasanton residents to sign a petition supporting the proposed Gas and Save station.

The council also will have an executive session on labor relations Thursday night.

Church comes to Concord

Leshner News Bureau

CONCORD—Democratic presidential candidate Frank Church is scheduled to make a campaign visit to Concord Thursday.

Church, U. S. Senator from Idaho, is tentatively planning to fly in to Buchanan Airport about 5 p.m. and give an address at a public rally at Concord Park and Shop center.

Plans call for him to then make a visit to the Concord Bay Area Rapid Transit station to greet incoming commuters.

Church, a latecomer to the Democratic nomination race, has shown strongly in recent primaries.

Another Democratic presidential latecomer, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., will make a campaign appearance in the county Saturday at 8:30 a.m. as part of a whistlestop campaign from Oakland through the San Joaquin Valley.

editors. "By adopting this stance the board has set a dangerous precedent: free and equal space to rebut an advertisement for the asking."

"The possibilities are endless, if Catholic students object to contraceptive ads, they would have the opportunity to have free advertising space for right-to-life statements. If Mormon students objected to alcoholic beverage ads we would be obliged to give equal space for every advertisement of beer and wine that runs in this paper. The combinations of counter - advertisements extend to the absurd," the announcement stated in part.

Inside observers said Cal State President Ellis McCune was angered by the scolding local press have dished out, and is said to have ordered administration officials to quickly set in concrete a policy on equal time considerations.

Kious, the most popular Pioneer editor in years, was given unanimous support by his staff to defy the publications board order. "He's the steady force behind the staff, and be granted them for each Gallo ad run. In addition, they asked that Kious or members of his staff write editorials supporting the United Farm Workers boycott of Gallo products.

Editors huddled and decided that they were not in a financial position to reject ads, although Kious reportedly stated he would prefer to be more selective in accepting advertising.

When the ruling was hastily voted on by the publications board last week, Kious, managing editor Dan Sheridan and Tockey decided it would be more ethical to cease publication than give in. The May 27 Pioneer front page displayed a funeral-type spread, using no pictures, black column rules, and defiantly boasted a 1/3-page Gallo ad, the first front-page ad in Pioneer history.

A short, five-paragraph announcement headlined "Editors call it quits" told of the decision to shut down, and was signed by the eight

Kitten custody

Who is their mother?

LIVERMORE — Kelly the German Shepherd wandered in off the street three years ago. She was homeless and without family.

A Pleasanton chiropractor provided shelter. Kelly has adopted the family on her own.

The dog belongs to Dr. Rick Close who boasts a menagerie of pets, from horses to raccoons. In her three years here, Kelly has played surrogate mother to all of them. But never anything resembling her latest feat.

The loving pooch has taken up care and feeding of a litter of kittens, presented three weeks ago by the Close's cat. The actual mother is ever-present, and fully capable of nursing her brood.

But she and Kelly are friends, and after all, what are friends for? Kelly nurses the squealing kittens every day and protects them while their legal mother rests. The cat takes over at night.

It is an inexplicable phenomenon because Kelly has never given birth on her own. But she has always possessed a matronly manner.

When the Close's horse suffered painful rope burns on the legs, it was Kelly who soothed them with cool licks. When people or other animals threatened her favorite raccoon friend, the Shepherd shoed them away with menacing growls.

Ever since the kittens were born, Kelly has stopped by the box in the bedroom to check on their health and welfare. And she has lovingly provided food for the litter.

As for the real mother of the kittens? Is she jealous of the doting surrogate?

"No," says Dr. Close's wife. "They get along like champs."

Supreme Court

City 0-2 in legal battles

PLEASANTON — The city learned it lost in two important court actions Friday, the Morrison Homes suit and the firefighters union appeal.

The state Supreme Court refused to take the firefighters union case, which means that the city will be bound by the meet and consult clause of the Myers - Milias - Brown Act in reshuffling the fire department's administration.

In effect, the Supreme Court upheld the firefighters' victory on the this point last month in the District Court of Appeals.

The decision will have broader implications, too. In effect it means that whenever top management wants to create middle management jobs whose holders are in an employee organization, the meet and consult process will have to be invoked.

Top management in cities around the state objected to this requirement and many city managers filed friend of the court briefs in support of Pleasanton on its appeal to the Supreme Court.

"Meet and consult" means that there must be a prompt meeting on the issue on the part of either party for a reasonable period of time and there must be an exchange of information, opinions and proposals, and an effort to reach an agreement.

It is not as strong as the Myers - Milias - Brown act's "meet and consult" clause which deals with matters of wages, hours and working conditions.

In the Morrison suit, decided by the same court which reversed the city's lower court victory in the firefighters suit, the issue was an annexation agreement signed by the city and Morrison Homes many years ago.

The city pleaded that the annexation agreement, which guaranteed 463 connections to Morrison, was invalid because the Local Agency Formation Commission's annexation agreements superseded it. The court said it was not true.

The annexation agreement was an agreement in good faith between the city and Morrison and the city had to deliver on its promise.

Scheidig noted the annexation agreement in question was the only one the city signed which had a specified number of sewer connections and described when they would be ready.

He said that the court decision, if it remains intact after appeals, could change the Sunol Sewage Treatment plant priority list dramatically.

There are about 700 connections reserved for homes, industry and businesses over the next five years. It's possible Morrison could get at least 300 of those for their residences, said Scheidig.

Edgar says it's not a popularity contest

PLEASANTON — City Manager Bill Edgar answered firefighters' criticisms about their two top administrators and allegedly low morale in the fire department Friday.

Edgar said that the recent criticism issued by a firefighters' union press release apparently was motivated by their "reluctance to accept the establishment of the Department of Public Safety which has been in effect one and a half years."

The firefighters said Wednesday that they had taken a unanimous vote of "no confidence" in Acting Fire Chief Bert Cherry and Director of Public Public Safety Walt McClelland. The vote was taken Monday night, and it is believed motivated at least partially by criticism from the public directed at the firefighters for the accidental burning of Fallon House, a 100 year old historical home which was due to be moved next week to the St. Raymond's Church historical compound.

Ironically the firefighters had nothing to do with the accidental burn, but in their press release they indicated disappointment with the fire department leadership for not pointing that out to the public.

They also complained that "personnel problems between the administrative and field personnel are at an all-time high."

Edgar said in his press release that "the management staff of the Department of Public Safety have and will continue to work with the firefighters to seek equitable solutions where valid problems exist."

"However, we must recognize that not all problems can be resolved to the satisfaction of all concerned. Where problems cannot be satisfactorily resolved within the department there are procedures to yield solutions and they are available to the firefighters," said Edgar.

"In these difficult times we cannot be expected to effectively administer our departments based upon the results of daily popularity contests. And resolution of these problems will never result from continued confrontation," said Edgar.

Edgar echoed earlier concerns expressed by Mayor Robert Philcox that the firefighters had taken an unfortunate incident, the accidental burning of the Fallon House by the Twin Valley Fire Training Academy, and using it as a used it as a springboard to criticize fire department brass.

"Such action by the union's membership only serves to inflame what we all agree to be a regrettable situation," said Edgar. The city's efforts should be directed toward insuring such an incident won't occur again, said Edgar.

"Actions intended to discredit individuals publicly or otherwise serve no useful purpose," said the city manager.

Edgar said that combining police and fire departments into the Department of Public Safety is not an attempt to make policemen out of firefighters, or vice versa, but rather a plan to deliver the most trained and qualified manpower possible to any emergency situation.

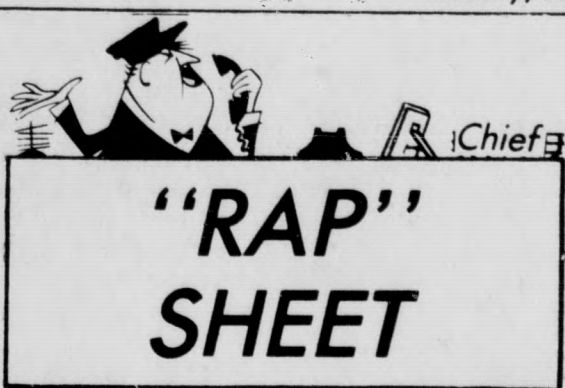

Cal State Hayward paper folds amidst controversy

HAYWARD — When Cal State Hayward's student newspaper, The Pioneer, folded last week in protest, news editor Sally Tockey of Pleasanton quietly closed her typewriter case and prepared for finals that would end her six-year quest for a degree.

"I really enjoyed the job while it lasted," she said yesterday, an obvious reference to the paper's sudden closure.

Amid much controversy, editor Steve Kious ceased publication one issue before schedule to protest a publications board ruling handed down last week. The board, under pressure from a student group, voted 4-2 to require The Pioneer to provide free advertising space to rebut each paid Gallo wine promotion run in the paper, although the ads themselves were entirely without political overtones.

Kious offered the student group space on the editorial pages whenever they desired, but members of the La Raza Coalition declined, instead demanding that free and equal space

Two cops, one citizen injured in melee

LIVERMORE — A 40-year-old Livermore man was arrested after a fracas with police officers late Saturday, police reported yesterday.

According to reports, officer Dennis Scott and reserve officer Kenneth Hagerty were patrolling East Avenue Saturday night. As they approached Jensen and Estates streets, they noticed a man kicking the passenger side door of a car.

Police pulled up behind the vehicle and got out as the suspect walked towards them. When told to go to the curb, the man allegedly yelled, "I can kill myself" and ran in front of oncoming cars, which managed to avoid him, police said.

As both officers tried to talk to the suspect, he allegedly turned and slugged Hagerty in the nose, breaking his glasses. The two struggled and Scott entered the fight, as the suspect reportedly kicked, elbowed and bit officers several times.

The suspect, identified as Carl Henry Grutzeck, 40, of 446 Huntington Way, was finally subdued, handcuffed and taken to Valley Memorial Hospital, where he refused treatment for wounds sustained in the fight with police. After taking him to city jail, he agreed to treatment and was taken back to Valley Memorial. He was treated, and then transferred back to the jail for booking.

Grutzeck was booked on suspicion of battery on police officers and resisting arrest. Police quoted Grutzeck as allegedly saying, "I felt like fighting."

Both Scott and Hagerty sustained cuts and bruises as a result of the struggle. Damaged items include Hagerty's $85 glasses, his $47 pants, Scott's $47 pants, and his $23 shirt.

Suspect arrested after dropping valium in front of police

LIVERMORE — A 19-year-old Hayward man detained at the 7-11 store on First Street early Saturday for investigation of being drunk was arrested after he dropped several valium tablets at the feet of police.

Lawrence Edward McCarty of Hayward was taken into custody about 4:30 a.m. by police and booked at city jail.

According to reports, store manager David Mucklow called police after a man, apparently intoxicated, had broken a wine bottle inside the store. Police arrived and decided to let the suspect and his friend go when the suspect's girlfriend, apparently sober, offered to drive the pair home.

Police watched as the car lurched forward three separate times, striking the curb on each occasion.

McCarty's companion, Robert Ward of Hayward, became angry and demanded he drive. Police intervened and arrested Ward on an outstanding $55 traffic warrant.

McCarty was arrested for being drunk in public, and while being led to the patrol car, dropped two packages of valium tablets. More tablets were later found in the holding cell McCarty occupied at the jail, police reported.

McCarty was booked on suspicion of possession and possession for sale of a controlled substance, and illegal possession of a hypnotic.

Two youths arrested after allegedly stealing car

PLEASANTON — Police arrested two 16-year-old Pleasanton youths in their homes after both had fled from a car reported stolen, police reported yesterday.

Officer Bill Coble stopped the car after seeing it weave erratically from side to side while following another car on Hopyard Road early Saturday. The suspect car had its high beams on, had no license plates and displayed an expired temporary permit on the windshield.

While running computer checks on the occupants, the driver got out and admitted taking the car. As Coble started to arrest them, both youths took off running down Hopyard.

Coble did some background checking and was able to identify the youths. Both were arrested at their homes a short time later.

Both youths allegedly admitted taking the car, saying it was common knowledge the driver left his keys in the ignition.

Both youths were booked on suspicion of temporarily taking a vehicle and resisting arrest.

Open education

How kids gain self-direction

(This is the 19th in a continuing series on The Classroom Teacher, featuring elementary, intermediate and high school teachers in Pleasanton, San Ramon, Amador and Murray).

Open Education concentrates on how children learn, how they become independent, self-thinking individuals.

This is the guiding spirit for the six teachers and reading specialist at Walnut Grove School involved in Open Education, one of three educational methods offered "under one roof" at the Pleasanton school.

Joyce Lanto could be considered a pioneer with the Open Ed concept in the Pleasanton district, having been in the multi-age teaching program prior to this year.

Joyce admits she was never over-fascinated with ability grouping.

"You have to guide children to become self-directed. We try to give them a lot of experience in adjusting to Open Education. There is a lot of reading, writing and self-expression each day," she comments.

Open Education is generally thought of as the opposite end of the educational spectrum from fundamentalism—with pod or team teaching the centrist style.

While the latter, the more contemporary teaching style, has the greatest number of students, both Open Education and fundamentalism have large enrollments—about 180 each.

A graduate of the College of St. Scholastica in Duluth, Minn., Joyce taught in the Minneapolis school system for several years before coming west to Fremont. She then taught for five years in Union City's New Haven School District, and then for one year at Livermore, all at the elementary level. She came to Pleasanton in 1969, being a member of the Walnut Grove faculty since that time.

Joyce believes that sharing has brought about Open Education at Walnut Grove. Indeed, it has been the dedication of faculty members attuned to this style of education and strong parent support that has apparently made the "Walnut Grove experiment" a model for not only other valley schools but those throughout the East Bay.

Joyce Lanto, right, looks over teaching materials with fellow Open Education staff members at Walnut Grove School.

The Open Education staff generally believe the biggest strides are made in the social area. "I see children who were very shy and reticent to communicate at the beginning of the year reading books together and trying to help one another," Mrs. Lanto enthuses.

She brings forth the example of one girl who discovered she could communicate best through her writing ability—and has gained considerable attention through cards she has written and displayed.

Joyce believes the program is good for the hyperactive child, the youngster who because of either diet or social conflicts, is a potential disruptive influence.

Presently, the Open Education staff, with the guidance of principal Tony Huff and support of parents, is considering a name change to something they believe would be more apropos.

Members of the Open Education staff, beside Joyce, are Joanne Nix, Peter Arbogast, Linda West, Stephen Blackford, Chris Bourg and reading specialist Joyce Randall.

June is burglary prevention month, and an excellent time to contact either the Pleasanton or Livermore police department Strategic Team Enforcement Program (STEP) for a free home security check.

Det. Jim Balch of Pleasanton or Det. Dave Hollander of Livermore will conduct thorough home security checks upon appointment. A check list showing the necessary security recommendations will be left with each resident to provide better security.

STEP statistics on burglaries compiled over the last two years have led police to form a composite profile of the typical residential burglar in the valley. John Q. Burglar is approximately 14 years

Sources of Energy—No. 5 of a series

If solar energy can help heat a house, why can't it run a power plant?

The answer is clouded

PG&E, like a number of other utilities and research organizations, is working on practicable ways to use the sun's energy. Areas that show the greatest promise include heating of homes and buildings, and water heating, including swimming pools.

Using the sun's energy to produce electric power is far more difficult and complicated and is too expensive to use today. And, because the sun only works one shift, conventional power plants will be needed at night or when the sun doesn't shine. Or else ways must be developed for large scale storage of electricity.

Research is under way to develop more efficient solar "cells" to convert the sun's energy directly into electricity. Other research is aimed at using the sun's heat to make steam, or to heat gases, to run turbine generators producing electricity. We hope that continuing research will pay off and that toward the end of the century the sun will be providing a significant portion of needed electricity.

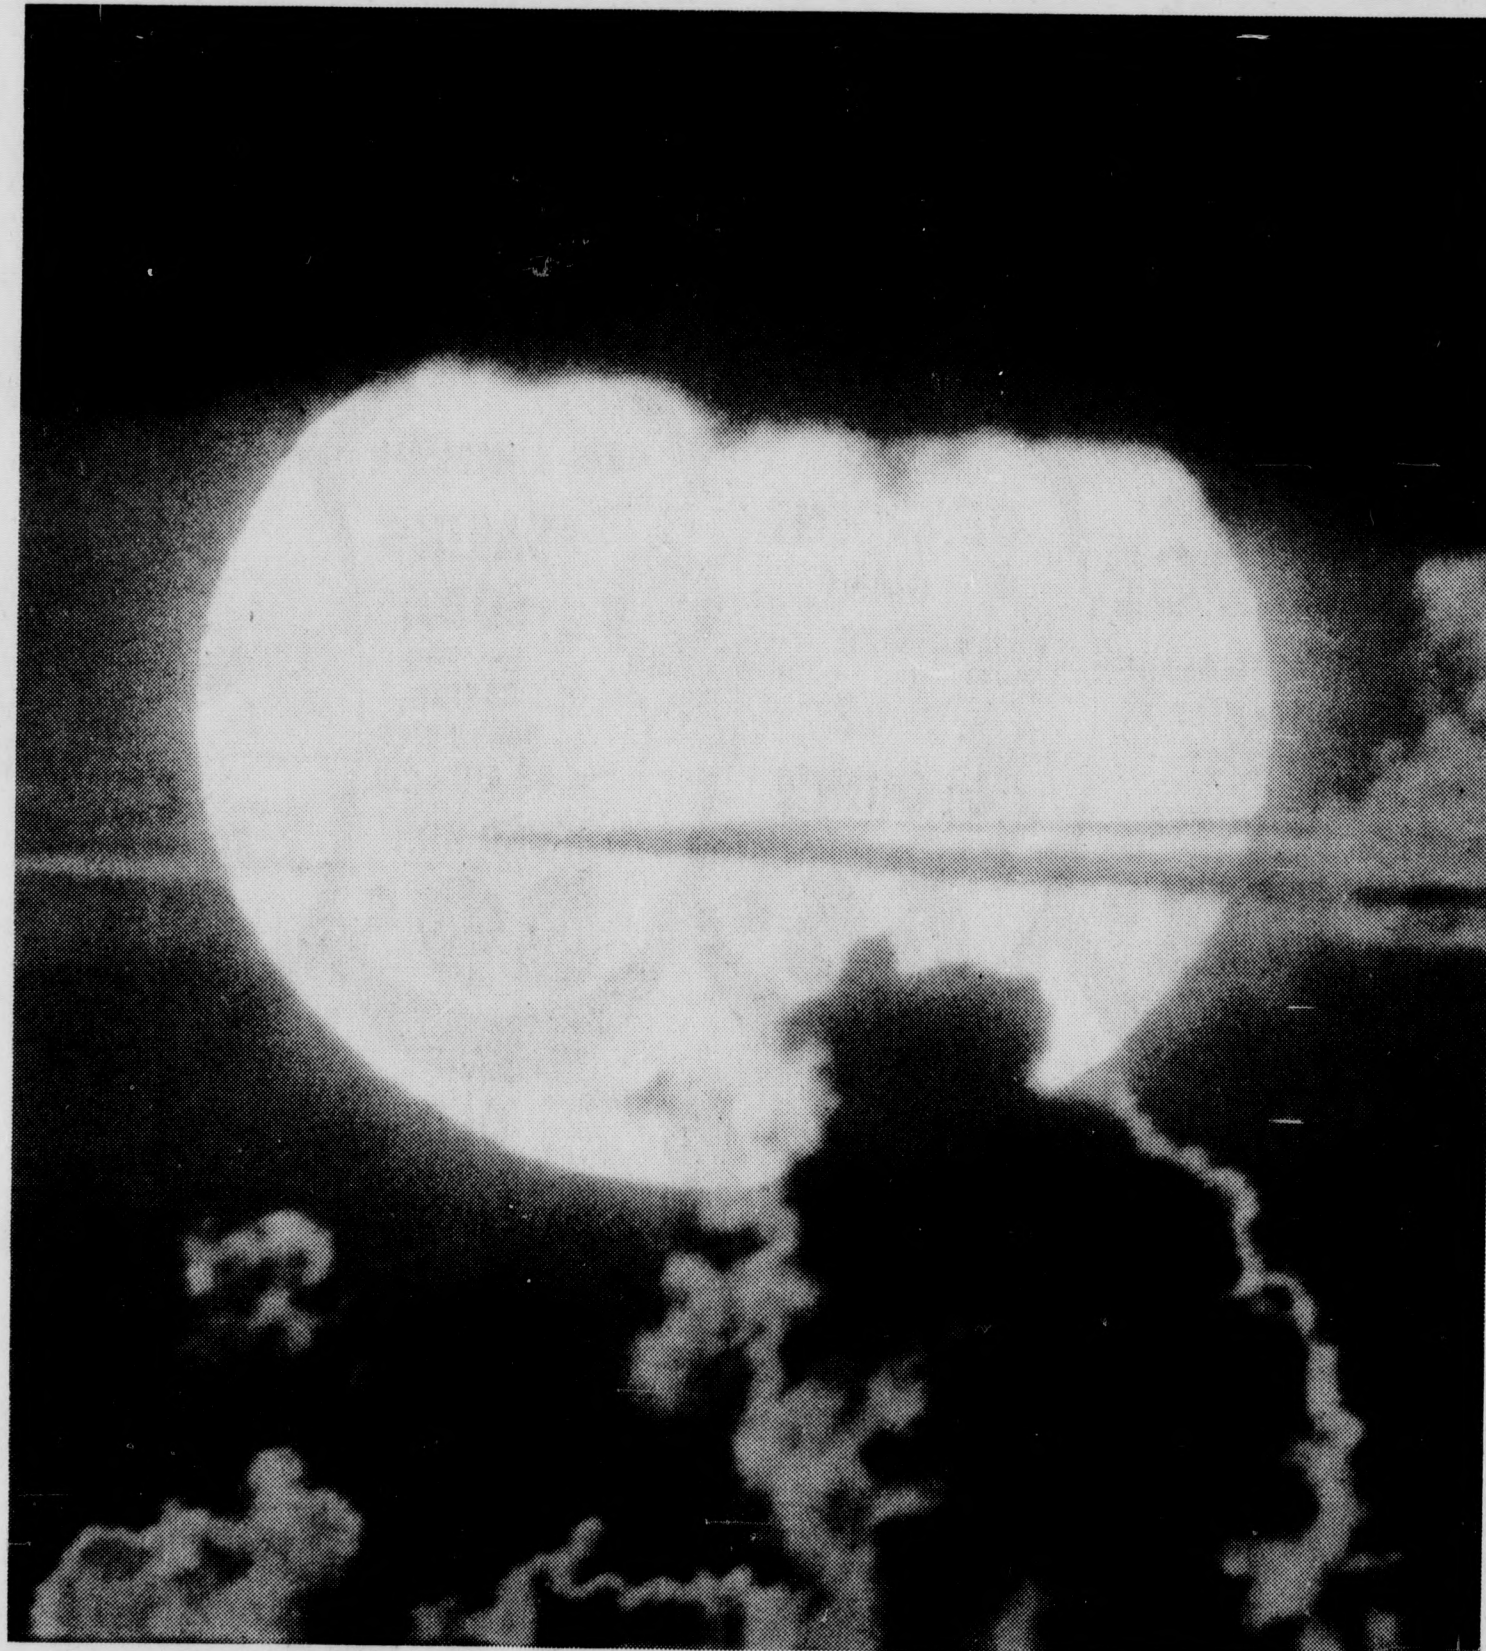

Other sources of energy

There are 5 sources of primary energy which PG&E now uses for generating electricity.

Northern California has one of the nation's most extensive hydroelectric systems. It produces relatively inexpensive electricity, but nearly all economic and acceptable hydro sites have already been developed. That's why natural gas and oil had to become more prominent in our energy mix.

Unfortunately, the costs of these fossil fuels have been skyrocketing. In the last 5 years, the price of fuel oil has increased sixfold and the price for natural gas has tripled, accounting for most of our rate increases.

PG&E has the nation's only geothermal power development, largest in the world, and we are expanding it. However, we estimate it will supply only about 10 percent of our needs by 1985.

These limitations are reasons why our fifth primary source of energy, nuclear, is so important, and why we, like other utility systems here and abroad, have turned to uranium as power plant fuel. When our two nuclear units at Diablo Canyon go into operation they can produce electricity for about 40% less than new oil-fired plants, despite higher initial construction costs.

Coal one day may be our sixth source of primary energy. We are in the process of acquiring reserves in Utah.

Wind, solar, garbage, tides, ocean thermal differences, fusion and other developing technologies may someday help us supply your energy. Some may take years to prove out. Others may never become efficient or reliable enough to be competitive. But if and when they are ready, we'll be ready, too. In the meantime, we must meet your demands for electricity.

Facing the problem together

The demand for electricity continues to grow, partly because population itself continues to grow. The problem of meeting this growing demand is critical.

For our part, we will continue our urgent efforts to develop all available sources, to find new ways to use energy more efficiently, and to keep you provided with adequate energy and reliable service at the lowest possible cost. For your part, the effective way to help control the spiraling cost of energy, is to use less of it. We encourage you to do so because the energy you use is too precious...and too costly...to waste.

you'll save money, too.

HAVE A BEDWETTER?

LET HIM HAVE A DRY BED

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting when not caused by organic defect of disease, can be ended surely and swiftly. Plants thrive on liquid seaweed

By LILLY AULT

Ever have that feeling that you would like to be able to have your plants and vegetables grow as fast and big as the weeds? Well, now you can. The product is "Alginure." Alginure is an odorless liquid seaweed which can be applied to your foliage each time you water without fear of over feeding, burning or killing the plants. It stimulates healthy growth, clear foliage and 25 percent more color.

A formula known only by eight people is manufactured by George Thomas of San Ramon. Thomas' first contact with the product came while he was living in Alaska and running a health food store. He was so impressed with the results achieved from use of the liquid that he decided to go into the business of producing the formula and selling the product.

To begin with, Thomas mixed his formula then "hit the street" to call on various nurseries to introduce the new creation. He left a small sample with nurseries, then in a few weeks would go back to see how the product was accepted.

"In each case," said Thomas, "orders were placed and delivered. The nursery people found the plant food sold so fast that the next order would either double or triple because word was spreading how great the product was and people were coming from every direction to buy a bottle to try it."

The product comes in half pints for 90 cents; pints for $1.55; quarts, at $2.65; half gallons at $4.65; gallons at $7.95 and five gallons at $6.95. For the first using of Alginure, it is suggested that two tablespoons to a quart of water be used. After the plant looks good, it is recommended that two tablespoons per gallon of water be used. The entire plant and roots should be saturated each watering. Up to 50 percent of the solution can be used without fear of damage to the plants.

The overwhelming response received from the use of the product, was much more than Thomas expected and now he finds himself unable to cover all the territories he would like as he is so busy making formulas to keep up with his orders. He is also in the process of finalizing plans for building a plant.

Tom Johnson of Pleasanton is one of Thomas' distributor. He too is very excited about the product and finds people very receptive in wanting to try and also placing orders for the natural fertilizer. "Out of 103 recalls," Johnson stated, "only one person did not want to place an order."

Johnson was so sold on the product that he was willing to "stick his neck out" and help Thomas flood the market. Having been out there for approximately three months now, Johnson is just as excited, if not more so, than the day he started.

Johnson's wife, Sue who owns and operates the shop "Planties and Bloomers" in Pleasanton tried the product and was amazed by the results on her plants. "They got greener and grew and grew," she said. Sue now carries a supply of the food and finds it is selling "very good."

Some people claimed they saw a change in their plants in 30 minutes, but Thomas says, "I really can't testify to that. Usually," he went on to explain, "you can notice a difference in about three or four days."

He recalled a story from one lady who stated she had a violet plant for two years and that it never bloomed. She used "Alginure" and claims that the plant has never quit blooming.

Another story told by Thomas was that a single potato vine produced 500 potatoes and that the potatoes were better tasting after use of the liquid.

"Seaweed has been used for centuries," Thomas claims. "It is a natural way of fertilizing and the plant is one of the fastest growing plants in the world," he said. "It will grow 12 inches in 24 hours."

Thomas also testifies that the product is also good as a soil conditioner "Alginure Sodium Alginate Soil Conditioner" has shown to increase soil aeration and increase water retentiveness by as much as 10 percent with as little as one percent of sodium alginate used.

When Alginure was used on vegetables and fruits, it was found that it improved flavor, increased yield, earlier cropping and better root formation.

When tested in Japan, it was discovered that by using two to 10 pounds of algae per acre, the average increase in the yield of rice was 20 percent. Plus, in subsequent years, there was a steady progressive increase in the crop.

Research in America on the use of seaweed and liquid seaweed extracts has shown that the liquid seaweed is quicker acting than seaweed added to the soil and is quantitatively much more effective.

The spider plant just "grew and grew" after Tom Johnson started using "Alginure" in the water.

George Thomas may look as though he has an extra head growing out of his shoulder, but it is only a head of cabbage he grew while living in Alaska and trying his new liquid formula of plant food.

LONG-RANGE
GOALS FOR THE VALLEY?

"I try to look toward long-range goals because the short range view can be disastrous," says Miller, candidate for ZONE 7.

October 10, 1972, Miller showed us his long range vision.

He voted "NO" to endorse the bonds to finance the construction of the ZONE 7 water treatment plant.

Fortunately, the rest of the city council and majority of voters disagrees.

The whole valley is enjoying better quality water at a fair price.

We don't think that Miller's is the correct long-range view necessary for positive ZONE 7 leadership.

Dublin class sets reunion

The first graduating class from Dublin High School, the Class of 1971, will hold its five-year reunion July 10 from 7:30 p.m. to midnight at Holiday House in Hayward.

Graduates of that class wishing more information may call Mrs. Becky Marks Chandler at 828-1725.

Members of the Veteran's of Foreign Wars stand silent to honor their fallen comrades in Memorial Day ceremonies at St. Raymond's Cemetery in Dublin. Charles Auer Post 9968 of the VFW hosted the observance, and Dawn Rutter, president of the post's auxiliary, placed a symbolic memorial wreath on a grave.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS
On March 16, 1776, the townspeople of Stratford, Conn., were enraged to learn that a newborn baby had been named by its Tory parents for British Gen. Thomas Gage. Some considered tar and feathers, a common vigilante action, for the child's parents, but were stopped by the Town Council. The World Almanac recalls.

South had based his whole line of play on East's early underderruff.
At the other table East was a wily old bird. He played the deuce of spades when his partner led the third heart.
South drew trumps, cashed one spade, came back to his hand and took the spade finesse to wind up down one.
Ask the Jacobys
Several readers have asked the meaning of "Tenace".
A tenace is any combination of two cards of the same suit with one intermediate card missing. Ace-queen is sometimes called the major tenace. If you hold a tenace and the intermediate card is to your left, your lower card will be a loser unless you can get it led up to. If the missing card is to your right, you can lead to your tenace and score your lower card.

Johnny's tactics ire Foyt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A.J. Foyt, 15 seconds short of his fourth Indianapolis 500 victory, complained bitterly that Johnny Rutherford took improper advantage of the yellow caution light, but he made no formal protest after the official standings were posted Monday.

The 60th running of the world's richest and most prestigious automobile race was its shortest, halted after 102 laps when rains soaked the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway track Sunday afternoon.

Rutherford, a 38-year-old racing veteran from Fort Worth, Tex., was out in front at the time, and when another downpour prevented a restart—nearly three hours later—he was given his second Indy triumph in the past three years.

But he called it a "hollow victory."

Nevertheless, it was still a victory Rutherford felt he had been cheated out of a year earlier, when rain gave Bobby Unser the checkered flag ahead of him.

This time, it was a soggy but happy Rutherford that made it to Victory Lane.

For Foyt, who finished third behind Unser and Rutherford last year, it was the ninth straight year he had failed to become the first four-time Indy winner.

"There were a lot of ribs between Bobby, A.J. and myself about the finish last year," Rutherford said. "All of us thought we could have won it. But Bobby was the winner, just as I am today. That's just the way things work out sometimes."

"I came here to race just like any other race," Rutherford said. "It was a situation where we felt we had a good chance last year, but we finished second and Bobby won."

"This year, we came back loaded for bear, ready, and it paid off."

Foyt, whose second-place finish was his best since he won the race in 1967, wasn't arguing that he should have been ahead of Rutherford at the end. He just pointed out that a comfortable lead he held over Rutherford at one point disappeared while the yellow caution light was displayed, a signal that all cars must slow down but hold their position.

"I went into the pit with a 23-second lead and came out with a four-second lead," Foyt complained.

But, according to track statisticians, Foyt made five pit stops to just four for Rutherford.

"A.J. just forgot he had an extra pit stop," Rutherford said. "That would account for 20 seconds."

As it turned out, Rutherford completed his 102nd lap in one hour, 42 minutes, 52.48 seconds, for an average speed of 148.725 miles per hour.

That was nowhere near the race record of 162.962 m.p.h. by the late Mark Donohue in 1972, but it was good enough to beat Foyt by 15.36 seconds. Gordon Johncock, the 1973 winner and the only other driver who finished 102 laps, was third, 89.59 seconds behind Foyt.

Johncock's teammate in the George Bignotti stable, Wally Dallenbach, finished a lap behind in fourth, his best showing in 10 Indy races.

Fifth place went to Panchito Carter, who drove the Dan Gurney Eagle that Bobby Unser piloted to victory last year.

Unser, who also won in 1968, switched rides this year and wound up 10th.

Bobby's brother, Al, another two-time winner, was seventh, flanked by the Roger Penske teammates Tom Sneva, in sixth, and Mario Andretti, in eighth.

Salt Walther, who had finished last—33rd—in three of his previous four races, wound up ninth.

Rutherford, who started on the pole position with an average speed of 188.957 m.p.h., led 48 of the 102 laps and will collect $7,200 in lap prize money alone as part of his quarter-million-dollar paycheck.

Foyt led for 29 laps. The race had been halted by rain just twice in the first 56 years.

Billy plates five, A's win

OAKLAND (AP) — Designated hitter Billy Williams drove in five Oakland runs, three with a first-inning homer, as the A's trounced the Kansas City Royals 10-1 Monday.

The A's first seven runs were charged to Royals' starter Paul Splittorff, 3-6, who lasted only 3 1-3 innings.

Mike Torrez, 6-5, went the distance for Oakland, scattering eight hits and allowing an unearned run in the second inning when the A's committed two errors.

Splittorff walked three batters in the first inning. Bert Campaneris was caught stealing but the other two runners were aboard when Williams connected for his sixth homer of the season.

Kansas City scored in the second inning when first baseman Gene Tenace booted John Mayberry's grounder and shortstop Campaneris let a hard grounder hit by Tony Solaita get through him. Mayberry came home when Tom Poquette grounded into a double play.

The A's made it 5-1 in the third when Sal Bando and Williams drove in runs and added two more in the fourth when Campaneris hit a sacrifice fly and North contributed a runscoring double.

Tenace, who missed five weeks because of a knee injury, had two singles, his first hits since returning to action late last week.

North raised his American League-leading stolen base total to 27 by swiping second in the first inning and Don Baylor set an Oakland record by stealing his 17th consecutive base without being caught, in the fourth. Baylor ranks second to North with 22 steals.

The game drew Oakland's biggest crowd of the year—31,842. All seats were half-price.

The Royals, who have a 17-47 record in Oakland since joining the league in 1969, will pitch Doug Bird, 5-1, against the A's Stan Bahnsen, 2-1, in Tuesday night's second game of the three-game series.

Les wins WC tennis

There were plenty of double-finalists in Monday's final round of the Mt. Diablo American Cancer Society tennis tournament in Walnut Creek.

The Memorial Day weekend tourney, organized by the Lafayette chapter of the Cancer Society, was played at the Heather Farms courts.

Les Hansen won the mens' "A" singles title with a 7-5, 6-3 win over Mike DeLane, and came back later to team with Greg Davis and win the mens'

"A" doubles over Ted Collins and Hank Lancaster, 7-5, 7-6.

Collins was one of the unlucky ones in Monday's play — in addition to losing in the mens' doubles, he and Judy Klopstock were defeated in the "A" mixed doubles final, 7-5, 6-4.

Jack Galloway duplicated Hansen's feat — but in the "B" ranks. Galloway won the mens' "B" singles final, 7-6, 6-3 over Ron Beck. In the "B" doubles match, Galloway combined with Steve Tool for a 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 win over Larry Cowan and Walt Thede.

Jill Toney was in on a pair of winning efforts — in addition to winning the "A" mixed doubles title with her husband, she and Klopstock won the womens' "A" doubles crown with a 6-1, 6-4 win over Cindy Ceteras and Patty Richardson.

The womens' "A" final never took place because of defaults in the prior rounds.

Raymond's statement restated

The Times would like to correct its misstatement that Valerie Raymond opposed the widening of Interstate 580. In fact, Raymond points out she was not opposed to the concept of widening that freeway, but said she would have preferred to see ways found to reduce the size of the cut.

She would have liked the median strip to be reduced from 80 to 40 feet wide, and would have liked authorities to have explored the possibility of eliminating frontage roads by buying up the property alongside.

Personally, she said she thought six lanes plus a climbing lane would have been adequate.

Kinney and water

Zone 7 candidate Ed Kinney proposes that the zone actively encourage new systems of water management.

The Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency is being forced by regional, state and federal powers to export its treated effluent out of the valley and dump it into the San Francisco Bay, Kinney said.

In years such as this, with very little rainfall, treated effluent would be a valuable resource to the irrigation of our parched agricultural lands, he said.

"Although LAVWMA is locked into the outfall line to the bay," Kinney said, "the zone should look for new ways to retain our precious water in the zone jurisdiction outside of Livermore, Pleasanton and Valley Community Services District boundaries."

Futch on issues

Zone candidate Archer Futch said this week that the major issue in this election is whether or not Zone 7 should become a new sewage agency for the valley.

The economic burden of providing an additional system in the valley which duplicates the existing treatment facilities of Pleasanton, Dublin and Livermore would be too great, he said.

Low income, retired and other citizens on fixed income would find it most difficult to pay increased cost to another agency, Futch said.

"The inevitable result of providing sewage and water for developments which are inconsistent with the plans of local government would be a great step toward becoming another San Fernando Valley," Futch declared.

"The zone should not be responsible for providing facilities for development near or adjacent to the existing communities which would destroy the economic tax base and plans of these communities," he said.

This type of development, Futch maintains, would be for people who would use our parks, library, schools and other facilities, but without paying for them.

Air pollution and other environmental problems would increase, Futch predicted. The relatively good water from the zone's treatment plants would go to these developments leaving little or none for better the existing communities who have been paying for better quality water for a number of years now, he said.

"A comprehensive water management program for the valley is needed," Futch said, "and Zone 7 should be included in planning such a coordinated program for all valley agencies, but there is no need for Zone 7 to duplicate and compete with the cities in the sewage treatment area."

Valerie's news

Editor, The Times:

I have checked all the issues of Valerie's Newsletter and every one of them carries the required declaration of publisher and address right on the front page. There must be some misunderstanding by Bill Thompson about the copy of Valerie's Newsletter he is holding. I suspect, Bill, that since you are not on the mailing list someone has passed on to you only a portion of her Newsletter No. 3. There were three sheets to this Newsletter as it was mailed out. Do you have all three?

About Valerie Raymond's signs outside the city limits — they are the work of a sign company named COGS. I guess that's what can happen when you hire professionals instead of sticking with "a bunch of amateurs." And speaking of sign violations: an excess of zeal seems to have infected the sign people of other campaigners as well. For example, I direct you to the east entrance of Pleasanton along Stanley Blvd. where as of Thursday, May 20, there were still seven of Murphy's signs nailed into those huge old black walnut trees which line the highway. Tell me, Bill, is that how Murphy protects the environment?

Kinney's record

Editor, The Times:

Referring to the Editorial of the Independent, Wednesday, May 19, 1976: Why has such a misrepresentation been made, that Mr. Kinney — as a Pleasanton city councilman — supported "Geldertown?" "Geldertown" is nonexistent, and is a figment of imagination, and is not within the sphere of influence of any town.

I understand Mr. Kinney has never met Mr. Gelderman, neither has he received any contribution from him.

Mr. Kinney is running an individual campaign; he is not on a slate with anyone. We must elect him as Director to the Zone 7 Board, with two more candidates capable of performing the same efficient service only he can provide.

Please be reminded that the smear tactics of the Independent will not lose Mr. Kinney any votes, and will not gain any votes for those candidates endorsed by the Independent.

Mr. Kinney believes in listening to the voice of the people; he will strive to see that our water is of the highest grade. When he is elected on June 8 to serve as a Director of Zone 7 Board, we should indeed be grateful that we have had the opportunity to vote for a man of his capability and high integrity.

For better, or worse? The nuclear initiative

The controversial Proposition 15, the Nuclear Power Plants Initiative, will come before the voters on June 8. In an effort to clarify the critical issues of the initiative, The Times offers this summary of major arguments by supporters and opponents of the Proposition 15.

Does Proposition 15

mean a shutdown of nuclear power plants?

PRO 15: The initiative requires the nuclear power industry to prove to the satisfaction of the California legislature that emergency systems will perform, nuclear wastes can be successfully stored and safeguarded against terrorism, evacuation routes are available to the public, adequate compensation will be assured in case of accident. The initiative is not a moratorium, but a graduated, reduced output phase down of nuclear plants over the next ten years if the requirements are not met.

CON 15: The initiative is actually a shutdown measure because it makes nuclear power plant operation contingent upon a series of unachievable, irrational conditions with which it would be difficult for the industry to comply.

The initiative calls for the state legislature, by two-thirds vote, to determine whether the provisions of the initiative have been satisfied. Is this reasonable?

PRO 15: Issues of great importance have consistently required at least two-thirds majority. The question of nuclear safety is of sufficient importance to justify that margin.

CON 15: The two-thirds provision would allow as few as 14 of the state's 120 state legislators to ban nuclear power use.

How safe is nuclear power?

PRO 15: Critical emergency safety systems on atomic power plants have never been fully tested. Passage of the initiative will give Californians a chance to test the industry's claims of safety in public hearings. The potential for devastating accident is great, and Californians have should have the right to evaluate the risks involved. And if nuclear power is as safe as the industry claims, why should the industry fear requirements set forth in the initiative?

CON 15: Nuclear reactors are very safe. The industry can site a 200-year reactor safety record without serious injury. The reactor industry is closely regulated, with backup systems built into each system to make it nearly impossible for a major accident to occur.

What provisions have been made to store and dispose of radioactive nuclear wastes?

PRO 15: After 30 years of research, there is still no way to store radioactive wastes safely. Given the magnitude of the risk, the public needs to be assured that the toxic wastes can be handled without dangerous consequences. Current storage procedures are inadequate.

CON 15: Wastes are currently being safely stored and buried underground in geologically stable earth formations that have not moved in 500,000,000 years.

In the event of a major nuclear power plant accident, are current liability provisions adequate?

PRO 15: Existing liability limits do not compensate the public adequately in the event of a major accident. If nuclear power is so safe, why won't the industry and utilities assume the full insurance risk? By lifting the current liability limit, the public would be fully compensated in the event of an accident.

CON 15: Federal law already provides compensation for damages. Congress is not likely to repeal the insurance liability limitations it has set, and utilities may not be able to waive those limits.

What role can energy conservation and the development of new energy sources play in the nuclear issue?

PRO 15: America does not need nuclear power to meet its energy needs. National emphasis on conservation and encouragement of alternative energy sources can contribute greatly to bridging the energy gap.

By increasing efficiency in energy use, Californians need not suffer a decline in their standard of living.

CON 15: Conservation efforts will be needed to ease the shortage brought on by dwindling oil and natural gas supplies. But even with comprehensive efforts, conservation and new energy sources cannot produce major amounts of electricity until at least the year 2000. Nuclear energy is needed in the interim to fill the energy gap.

New standards for reference

SAN FRANCISCO — The State Bar of California has voted for revisions to make standards governing lawyer reference services more responsive to public need, it was announced last week.

The Bar's Board of Governors also heard views on proposed changes in regulations controlling lawyer specialty fields.

Lawyer referral services are one way the organized bar is able to link people who require legal services with attorneys qualified to serve them, the board said.

The changes in the standards are intended to meet the expressed public need for legal service and to encourage attorneys to take more local initiative in meeting those needs.

Adoption of the revisions followed two years of study during which public hearings were held and comments from local bars accepted.

The rules are effective immediately for new lawyer reference service programs. Services now operating have until Jan. 1, 1977, to comply.

One major change authorizes some non-profit organizations other than bar associations to operate lawyer referral service programs. Any of the legal aid programs serving indigents, for example, or any group furnishing legal service to people with regard to their civic, political or constitutional rights, will be able to operate referral programs.

So-called "specialty bars" such as the California Trial Lawyers Association, also will be able to operate such services.

Two equal rights measures were placed on the bar's tentative legislative program, including one that makes "actionable" the willful refusal to issue a credit card in a woman's maiden name.

The second measure would impose a requirement of premium pay for overtime work by adult males as well as by females and minors in private employment in the state.

The board also voted to support legislation that would amend the Welfare and Institutions Code to set up procedures for disqualifying a Juvenile Court referee for prejudice and for appointing another juvenile officer.

State Bar consumer program

SAN FRANCISCO — The State Bar of California has embarked on development of a comprehensive consumer information program, it was announced last week.

The action stems from decisions made by the Bar's Board of Governors during meetings concluded in Los Angeles.

"The aim is to provide sufficient and readily understandable information which will help people find the right lawyer," said Bar President David S. Casey.
